Early Morning Stroller Sees Suspect Prowl in Drug Store

Tells Two Policemen Patrolmen Find Man With Telephone Coin Box in Hands

Working quickly on a woman's tip, Patrolmen Thomas Stack and John Rice went into a South Townsend Street drug store with drawn revolvers and nabbed a burglary suspect in the back room of the establishment.

The burglary suspect identified himself as Andrew J. Madison, 43, a Negro, of 419 Harrison Street. Madison was taken to headquarters and held on an open charge.

The woman, Miss Esther Nappi of 403 Jackson Street, was out for an early morning stroll about 6 o'clock when she went by the Rosenberg Drug Store, 961 South Townsend Street, and saw a man moving about inside.

Miss Nappi hurried toward the nearby Jackson Lodge to telephone to police. She had only gone a short distance, however, when she saw Stack and Rice in a radio car, driving west on Jackson Street, toward South Townsend Street.

Hailing the officers to stop, Miss Nappi went to the prowler car and reported that someone was in the drug store.

Rice and Stack jumped from the car and ran to the rear of the Rosenberg store, where they found a recent one-family home with a jay-ravelling roof, immediately adjoining the building housing the drug establishment.

The roof of the house and an open window in the other building were almost parallel. Deciding this had been the method of entry for the burglar, Rice and Stack climbed up to the roof of the dwelling, stepped over to the open window and found themselves in a rear hallway.

At the foot of the stairs, there was a door, with a large panel kicked out, leading to the back room of the drug store.

Rice and Stack went down the stairway, crawled through the opening in the door. They reported they found Madison, with a telephone coin box in his hands, in the back room of the drug store.

The Negro was taken to headquarters by the arresting officers after they radioed the dispatcher at the police station and asked to be put out of service.

Plane Lands On pontoons, 3 Get Bumped

Navy Amphibian's Wheels Jam on Reaching Airport

Ship Slides 100 Feet One of Crew Hops Out Hastily Because of Blast of Flames

A naval reserve amphibian plane landed at Municipal Airport Sunday afternoon on its pontoons when its landing gear jammed.

Lieut.-Commander Mark McClesney, piloting the plane, and a crew of two, escaped with minor bruises and bumps as the big plane slid to a safe landing on the grass 200 yards behind the water at the airport.

The ship slid along nearly 100 feet in an S-shaped path and finally stopped, listing slightly. Just before it slid to a stop, one of the crew, seated toward the rear of the main pontoon, was seen to hop out of the ship.

A blast of flames from one of the nine-cylinder motor's exhaust stacks is believed to have hastened his exit, although the flames died immediately.

Lieut.-Commander McClesney told James E. Walsh, airport manager, that he was making a cross-country flight to Floyd Bennett Field New York City, and intended to stop at the Syracuse airport, to refuel. He said he was able to get the emergency wheels only part way down, and so decided to risk a "dry landing" on the pontoons.

He visited his cousin, Donald McClesney, president of Hall & McClesney, Inc., at the latter's summer house on Skaneateles Lake Sunday morning, landing on the lake. The plane, a Grumman utility amphibian, left the airport about 9:30 P. M. Sunday for Skaneateles Lake. Lieut.-Commander McClesney said he expected to take off for New York City Monday sometime.

N. R. Caswell, Gouverneur Banker, Dies

Year's Illness Fatal to Former First National Head

Special Dispatch to The Herald
Gouverneur, Aug. 8.—Nelson R. Caswell, 74, for more than 35 years one of the most prominent business men of this area, died at 8:15 P. M. Saturday at his home in Grove Street.

Mr. Caswell was head of the Aldrich Paper Company mill at Natural Dam from about 1900 until 1920 when the mill burned. The new mill built in 1921 was called the Oswegatchie Paper Company and it was shut down in 1928 and was later succeeded by the Rushmore mills.

Mr. Caswell in 1919 became president of the First National Bank of Gouverneur, but always maintained close connections with the mill at Natural Dam.

When the banking crisis broke in 1932, the First National Bank was placed in the hands of a conservator. Mr. Caswell eventually ceased all connection with the original bank and headed a committee to handle the discarded assets of the old bank, the large part of which had in 1934 made a partial recovery.

Mr. Caswell was engaged in attending the old bank valuers when ill health overtook him a year ago.

Funeral services will be held privately at the home tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Bearers will be Postmaster Grant W. Fuller, Henry R. Freeman, Everett Loomis, Arthur P. Mason and James W. Wemyss. The Rev. V. O. Boye, pastor of Trinity Church, will conduct the services and burial will be in Riverside Cemetery.

Besides his wife he is survived by two sons, George R. Caswell of Gouverneur and Robert Caswell of Watertown; one daughter, Mrs. Leslie E. Davis of Oakland, Calif.

Acting Mayor Heads Council And Is Two-Thirds of Board

Multiplicity of Posts Goes to Davis, Due to Absences

Councilman Bertram R. Davis Monday became, at one and the same time, acting mayor of Syracuse, acting president of the Common Council, and two-thirds of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, besides retaining his post as majority leader of the council.

With Mayor Roland B. Marvin out of town, William T. Lane, president of the Common Council was scheduled to take over duties of the city's chief executive, but Mr. Lane was called away from the city, too, and so Mr. Davis moved up.

In accordance with tradition, Mr. Davis, was majority leader, became president of the council and as president of the council, he was made acting mayor.

There are three members on the Board of Estimate and Apportionment: The Mayor, the president of the Common Council and Commissioner of Finance Thomas E. Kennedy. Thus, in his capacity as mayor and council president both, Mr. Davis wielded the two-thirds stick over Kennedy.

The Common Council, at its regular session in the afternoon, was expected to approve an ordinance calling for the establishment of a three-man commission to supervise activities of the recently-created city bureau of real estate.

The commission would consist of Mr. Kennedy, William T. Cananagh, commissioner of taxation and finance, and Corporation Counsel James C. Torrey.

Syracuse Police Join Hunt for Auburn Convict

Syracuse police joined Monday in a state-wide hunt for Edward Sampson, 30, Negro convict who escaped from an Auburn Prison farm at Seneca last Sunday night.

The fugitive was said to be five feet, seven inches tall, weighing about 130 pounds and dressed in a gray prison coat and trousers. A teletype message said he may have worn a black or gray sweater.

According to Capt. David C. Waby, in charge of the prison farm, Sampson was there when the final night check-up was made at 10 P. M., but was not in evidence when the breakfast check-up was made Monday morning. Captain Waby confined all other prisoners to quarters and notified Warden Joseph H. Brophy of the escape. Sampson was serving a term of two and a half to five years for attempted grand larceny, second degree. He was transferred to Auburn from Sing Sing prison April 2, 1937.

Veteran Rail Men Guests At Clambake

Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers Stage Oswego Outing

Special Dispatch to The Herald
Oswego, Aug. 8.—Retired engineers were guests of Oswego Division, 152, Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers at a clambake at Dowles Grove on the shores of Lake Ontario yesterday afternoon.

Stories of railroading were exchanged by the veterans and those still in service. J. M. Albright of Utica, general chairman of the B. and O. E. lines east of Buffalo, was an honorary guest.

A committee of the Oswego division composed of George A. Lamb, chairman; Max Robinson, O. Robert Carson and James Feley was in charge of the affair.

Before and after the bake a program of field sports and other entertainment was enjoyed. The affair afforded the veterans an opportunity to renew old acquaintances and enjoy visits which occur infrequently.

At the conclusion of the dinner several of the veterans were called upon for brief remarks. Chairman Lamb was toastmaster.

Among those called upon were Mr. Albright, E. T. McLaughlin, Watertown; John S. Miller, Oswego, who for 21 years was chairman of the Oswego division, and who retired recently at the conclusion of 50 years' service; James Danaher, a veteran engineer who yesterday became a great-grandfather; William K. Olmstead, retired station haggagoman, and James McNamara, who still is in the service as a fireman in the maintenance of way department.

Veterans honored were L. C. Allen, James Brown, William Grady, C. E. Miller, James Danaher, W. T. McLaughlin, John S. Miller and James Smith.

Yacht Racing Is Halted by Lack of Wind

Sunday's Scheduled Owasco Club Contest Is Postponed

Special Dispatch to The Herald
Oswego, Aug. 8.—A period of little breeze yesterday afternoon caused postponement of the scheduled Owasco Yacht Club race. The boats started briskly around the triangular course, but before they had rounded the first buoy the wind died and none crossed the finish line in the required time to make the race round. No date for re-sailing has been set.

Comets and catboats were the only classes in the race attempt. Most of the doughty skippers were in Rochester to sail in competition there. Other sailors had removed their boats from Owasco to take overland to Chautauque Lake where over the next week-end the Central New York Yacht Racing Association will hold its annual three-day regatta.

The following week at least two star boats from the Owasco Club are expected to be entered in the 12th district star championship regatta on Seneca Lake at Geneva. The winner there will then compete in a national regatta and the winner of this latter will later compete for international honors.

Several comet class boats from Owasco's fleet will also go to Skaneateles Lake next month for the national championship comet regatta.

Man Is Burned Starting Fire With Gasoline

Olyde, Aug. 8.—Escaping possible death from flames Prector Johnson, 53, was badly burned this morning. Johnson reported for work at the H. C. Hemmingway Canning Company at 5:30 o'clock. Unable to find any kerosene to start the fires in the boiler, Johnson used gasoline. Flames enveloped his clothes. He tore them off in time to prevent more serious injury. His left leg was badly burned, his hands seared and his left foot also burned.

Drownings Take 2 Lives In City Area

Fisherman Steps Off Shoal After He Is Saved Once

Boy Fights Rescue

Water-Cycle Rider Goes Down to Death in Oneida Lake

Sunday drowning accidents in the Syracuse area claimed the lives of a Syracuse fisherman and a Brewerton boy.

The victims: ERNEST PAUL HAUKE, 37, of 146 Lincoln Avenue, drowned Sunday morning in the Seneca River near Jack's Reef.

STANLEY JOSEPH BAKER, JR., 14, of Brewerton, R. D. 1, drowned at noon Sunday in Oneida Lake at Shepard's Point.

Hauke drowned when he stepped off a shoal where he had been taken after he and two companions were rescued from the Seneca River.

The three fishermen, Hauke, Kenneth Cleverly, of 2827 Milton Avenue, Solvay, and Fred Neumeier, of 308 Arthur Street, arrived at Edmund Hunt's boat livery, at Jack's Reef, early Sunday and rented a small craft to which they attached their own outboard motor.

Disregarding Hunt's advice not to go out on the river, the men headed for the opposite shore, 200 feet away. When the boat was far out in the water, one of the fishermen stood up, and the light craft lurched over, pitching all three into the stream.

Standing on the dock near the boat livery with Hunt and his wife, Nelson Heckart, of 410 Gifford Street, saw the boat capsize, and went to the aid of the fishermen in a rowboat.

One of the men clinging to the overturned boat and was rescued later, but Hauke and the third man in the party grabbed Heckart's rowboat and were dragged toward shore.

When the rescue craft was 15 feet from the dock, Hauke stood up in four feet of water, unaware that he was on a shoal, while his companion struck out for shore and safely reached land.

A warning not to walk on the shoal was shouted to Hauke from the rock, but it was too late, for the fisherman had already stepped off. Heckart dived after Hauke twice before succeeding in bringing him up, but all efforts at resuscitation failed.

A malive of Rome, Hauke was employed by the Cooney Refrigeration Company. He is survived, by his mother, Mrs. Charles Hauke, of Rome; three brothers, Emil Hauke, of Foughts; George Hauke and Carl Hauke, of Rome; and two sisters, Miss Esther Hauke, of Rome, and Miss F. G. Mackay, of 615 Caley Avenue.

Funeral services will be conducted at the Griffin & Aldridge funeral home, 207 North Washington Street, Rome, at 1:30 P. M. Wednesday. Burial will be in Rome Cemetery.

Thrown from a water bicycle into Oneida Lake, off Shepard's Point, young Baker fought off a woman who attempted to rescue him, sank unconscious in 15 feet of water and died despite a three-hour fight by campers, police and physicians to revive him.

Mrs. Maude Nottingham, who resides in a farmhouse near the lake, was the woman who heard the boy's cries for aid, plunged into the water and made a futile attempt to grab him and hold him up.

Panic-stricken as he floundered 150 feet of shore, the boy went down as a rubber carrying Mrs. Antonio V. Altman, wife of the head of the Altman Rolling Company, and a motorboat manned by Frederick A. Kreuzer of the Muench-Kreuzer Candy Company, and William Kreuzer went to his aid.

The motorboat arrived at the scene first, and William Kreuzer, a resident of Baltimore, Md., and a nephew of Frederick Kreuzer, dived into the water and brought up the boy.

A St. Joseph Hospital interne, Syracuse police with an inhalator, troopers and campers worked over the boy almost three hours. Then Baker was rushed to the Syracuse City Hospital and placed in an iron lung, but at 3 P. M. he was pronounced dead.

Surviving the boy are his parents; a brother, William Baker; and two half-brothers, Raymond Baker, Syracuse, and William Cunningham of Manlius.

2 Corn Ships Arrive With Large Cargoes

Steamers S. H. Robbins and C. A. Reiss Reach Oswego Elevator

Others Are Now Due Canal Fleets Also Arrive to Load at State Docks

Special Dispatch to The Herald
Oswego, Aug. 8.—Two corn ships arrived at the Oswego elevator over the week-end.

The steamer S. H. Robbins arrived late Saturday afternoon from South Chicago while the C. A. Reiss arrived here yesterday from Fort William, Ont., at the head of navigation of the Great Lakes.

The Reiss lay at anchor outside the breakwater while the Robbins was being unloaded. The Robbins cleared for Toledo yesterday while the Reiss went into the elevator berth. It will be unloaded late today.

The steamer C. S. Hebbard cleared from South Chicago Friday and should arrive here late today or tomorrow with a cargo of corn for export.

Canal fleets also arrived over the week-end to load corn at the State elevator for Albany. Aside from grain, petroleum products constitute most of the tonnage handled over the Oswego route of the Barge Canal. Most of these cargoes are going to upper lake ports.

The tug Celtic with the tankbarge Highgrade 10 arrived over the canal yesterday and left for an upper lake port. The Rome Schooner arrived from Buffalo and continued over the canal to New York.

The motorship Cleveland arrived from New York Saturday night enroute for Chicago and Milwaukee with merchandise.

Two-Hour Illness Is Fatal to Widely Known Fulton Man

Special Dispatch to The Herald
Fulton, Aug. 8.—William Emory Fuller, 84, last surviving former wagon-maker and blacksmith of this city, died at 8 o'clock this morning following a two-hour illness. Mr. Fuller was about the city Saturday and yesterday. He retired in the usual health last night and was stricken in falling health for several months but was able to be about the city.

Mr. Fuller was a life resident of this community. On his mother's side were the Emory family, former early settlers of the town of Voiney and after whom Emory Road now bears the name. For more than 40 years he operated a wagon-shop and blacksmith shop in South First Street, opposite the present site of the city hall. At that time there were six or seven of these shops, and Mr. Fuller is the last survivor of the proprietors of these businesses.

He was born in Cayuga Street a short distance from where he died and had made his home for many years.

Surviving are four sons, George H. Fuller, former treasurer of Oswego County; Alvah Fuller, Judson Fuller and Charles Fuller; two daughters, Miss Mary Fuller and Mrs. Carrie Bushell; seven grandchildren and three great-grandchildren, all of Fulton.

Negro Cult Invades 'Heaven' Across From Hyde Park

Krum Elbow-on-the-Hudson, Aug. 8 (AP)—Father Divine, Harlem's black Messiah, leads 2,000 of his faithful today to the cult's latest "promised land," a 500-acre tract across the Hudson River from the ancestral estate of President Roosevelt.

Two excursion steamers were chartered to transport the peace-shouting worshippers from New York City to the site where the bald little Negro evangelist hopes to establish a self-supporting colony of 3,000 disciples.

The tract was sold for $51,000 by Howland Spencer, who said his sole reason for making the deal was "to test the theories of Roosevelt" against those of Father Divine.

Since the land was purchased 10 days ago, 25 Negroes have worked steadily preparing for the visit of Father Divine and his followers, who also will inspect two "sub-heavens" at Milton and Kingston.

Visitors were barred yesterday from the former Spencer estate and the Milton retreat a few miles down the river.

"Peace," said a short, grinning Negro. "You can not inspect it here because Father will be here tomorrow."

"We are preparing food, a lot of food with an abundance of vegetables. I wish I could show you Father Divine's private dining room. It is all stucco and very nice."

Followers of Divine, who regard him as a god, paid for the Spencer estate and also purchased a 50-room house on upper Madison Avenue in New York for $24,500 to serve as his headquarters and home.

The cult has established almost 50 "retreats" in Ulster County and numerous "heavens" in Harlem where 10- and 15-cent meals are dispensed.
