PHILADELPHIA (Before the Storm) — Democratic delegates look like Republican delegates look like Republican delegates. gates with more on their mind

The average delegate is 42 years old, hasn't had to worry about a candidate for 1. years and wishes he didn't have to now.

If he is married, he brought his wife with him and will explain to her what is happening drowned in the Barge Canal last plain to her what is happening night in sight of a Utica friend at at the convention just as soon whose camp he was spending the as he finds out.

Except for their state pins, delegations look much alike except that those who came uninstructed look a little happier.

You hear more Truman talk than anything clse in the lobbies. . . Some of it real nice.

And Jimmie Roosevelt says if Mr. Truman is nominated, "We will do all we can to help him."

I understand Harry wired, "Were you quoted correctly?"
