Syracusan Rescue Hero in Boat Disaster Costing 27 Lives

Children, Women, Drowned

Sudden Squall Capsizes Craft, Then Lake Quiets Down

Tales of Heroism Tragedy Caused When Passengers All Flee to One Side of Craft

Chicago, July 29 (AP)—As rescue work got under way at the spot where the excursion boat Favorite sank last night, with the loss of 27 lives, Commodore Eugene McDonald, sportsman and sailor, reached the scene and he was one of the first to don a diver's helmet and go below to explore the submerged craft. Throughout the night he remained aboard his yacht and aided in raising the Favorite.

Commodore Eugene McDonald, referred to in the American Press dispatch from Chicago, is a Syracuse boy, the son of Mrs. Eugene F. McDonald of the James Apartments, this city. He is president of the Zenith Radio Corporation and during the World War held the rank of commander in the U. S. Naval Reserve.

Chicago, July 29 (AP)—Whipped into wrath by a sudden squall Lake Michigan dragged down the excursion steamer Favorite a half mile off Lincoln Park yesterday afternoon, drowning 27 holiday makers—seven little girls, nine boys, 10 women and one man. Today, still angry, the lake pouped away at five fathoms anchored under a leaden sky at the scene, while divers groped about to make certain the last victim had been taken from the depths.

Ashore the authorities set themselves to investigate and fix blame. None of the authorities had any idea of missing. Whether others than the 27 known dead had been lost was a point of doubt. Two women, who last night were believed lost, were found safe at home, having escaped among the early rescues. A curse had been found containing their names.

Divers find bodies. The last body recovered, that of a boy, had been washed in toward shore. Caps, handbags, lunch baskets and other salvage were brought up by divers, who after four hours work had found no other bodies.

Capt. Carl Howell of the coast guard planned to obtain a long cable from the boats attached, suspend it between two boats and drag a large net about the scene of the capsizing. High running seas was a help as well as a hindrance, Capt. Peter Weismüller of the life guards said. He is brother of Johnny Weismüller, the noted swimmer, who helped in the rescue work yesterday.

It was believed that any bodies still in the lake would be washed into the shore within 24 hours. The Favorite listed noticeably to the left when floated free, it was disclosed. (Concluded on Page 3, Column 3.)

China Quake Death List Near 100,000

Three Cities, Many Towns and Villages in Ruins. Church Collapses. Mountain Moves Upon Town, Destroys All in Path. London, July 29 (AP)—Scenes of death and terror are described in the first detailed account to come out of the "Wild West" of China of the great earthquake which occurred in Kansu province on May 23.

The details, telling of the complete destruction of the cities of Sianchow, Liangchow, Tumentse and Kiang and innumerable towns and villages, with a casualty list estimated at 100,000 show that the disturbance may be classed among the most terrible catastrophes of all time.

Monsignor Buddenbrock, Vicar Apostolic of the Steyl mission at Lanchow, Kansu, gave the details in a letter, an outline of which has been sent to the Westminster Gazette by its Shanghai correspondent. It says that in Liangchow alone at least 10,000 were killed, while a moving mountain completely wrecked the city of Tumentse.

Scores of worshippers at mass in the church at Sianchow were overwhelmed by the sudden collapse of the edifice as subterranean rumblings were heard. Priests worked for hours administering the sacrament to the dying, and carrying the injured to places of safety. Not a house in Sianchow escaped damage, and in each dwelling there were dead and dying.

Through the earthquake area, the population suffered untold miseries. Monsignor Buddenbrock says that at some places great fissures appeared in the earth from which a bluish black liquid spurted.

Late in June a report reached Shanghai that a severe earthquake had ruined the greater part of Liangchow, in the northern part of Kansu province, near the Mongolian border, on May 23. This was the date on which seismographs of three continents recorded a heavy earth shock.

Calculations by the United States Coast and Geodetic Survey in Washington indicated the remote province of Kansu was the scene of the disaster.

Seven years ago Kansu was rent by a terrible earthquake, which took more than 100,000 lives.

Boys Drown Swimming In Oneida Lake

Rome Clerks Go Down Trying to Save Each Other. Exclusive Dispatch to The Herald. Sylvan Beach, July 29 (AP)—After an all-night search by police and volunteer helpers, the bodies of Francis Roberts, 21, and William O'Brien, 22, of Rome, who were drowned last night while swimming at Sylvan Beach, near here, were recovered this morning.

The discovery was made about 8:30 o'clock by John Devons and Orville Brown, of Sylvan Beach, who located the bodies in six feet of water in front of Scott-Noose Park, where they had apparently drifted in to shore.

Roberts and O'Brien were members of a swimming party at the park last night. They were on a raft about 100 yards from shore, and witnesses of the fatality said that the raft parted and the men in attempting to save one another went down in 10 feet of water.

Efforts to effect a rescue by two girls, Helen Bittlinger and Norma Duncanson, both of Hanover, Pa., were vain. They swam to the assistance of the two men, but the craft proved too great, and they were forced to release the bodies.

Word was sent to Dr. E. J. Teller, Rome coroner, and to police headquarters here for grappling hooks. Led by Will C. Hayes, chief of police at Rome, and State troopers, the search for the bodies was immediately commenced. Aided by automobile headlights on shore, volunteers grappled all night, but without success. The discovery was made this morning when hope for recovery of the bodies had been nearly abandoned.

EXAMINER IN TAX FRAUD IS PROBED

Albany, July 29 (AP)—Frank J. Cunningham, senior examiner in the State Transfer Tax Bureau of this city, is being held in the custody of the Albany County district attorney's office today while police and State troopers investigate a alleged fraud involving $3,000 in the bureau.

No charges have yet been laid against Cunningham, but he was taken into custody late yesterday afternoon and held in a police station overnight.

It was said a fictitious estate was set up in the transfer tax bureau, and a fictitious trustee created, to handle a refund check, issued by the State on the fictitious estate, for $3,000.

Cunningham was identified by bank tellers and the president of a local bank as the one making the deposit of the check, and making withdrawals against it in the name of "Charles J. Cummings."

The procedure made it fairly easy for the fraud to be committed, it was said. The State requires a deposit equal to the maximum tax possible on an estate, before the executor can begin to disburse.

After the estate had been settled and the tax determined, the State then issued a refund for the difference between the deposit and the actual tax.

First Stop Made At Rochester

Oversea Flier Leaves Syracuse After Day of Celebration

30,000 See Him Here Stadium Crowded as Air Hero Rides in Parade

A full page of Lindbergh photographs by Syracuse Herald staff photographers will be found on page 12 of this issue.

Buffalo, N. Y., July 29 (AP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh arrived safely at the Buffalo airport at 1:15 P.M. today from Rochester, N. Y., completing the tenth leg of his tour of the country.

Rochester, July 29 (AP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh spent exactly one hour in Rochester today on his air tour of New York State in his transatlantic monoplane, the "Spirit of St. Louis," and then went on to Buffalo. A crowd, small at first, but growing to approximately 75,000 greeted the aviator at Buffalo Field, the municipal airport, when the silver plane came from Syracuse out of the gray clouds in the East and settled down to a landing at 11:01 A.M. after cutting a few circles above the city. At 12:01 P.M., daylight time, the plane got under way again, repeated the circles over the business section and headed for Buffalo.

By ROBERT R. MILL. With its motor purring the same song of power that carried it across the broad Atlantic, the Spirit of St. Louis, piloted by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, today zoomed down upon several hundred spectators at the Syracuse Airport in a farewell gesture to the city.

The youth at the controls—his tanned hair was confined beneath a flying cap—waved from the cabin where he was sitting when he had his first glimpse of France.

Then the ship climbed—one of the famous climbing turns of which Colonel Lindbergh is the master—and headed for Rochester, where a brief stop will be made. Ahead of it flew the escort plane.

Buffalo is the destination of both ships this afternoon. The flier's farewell, which Colonel Lindbergh tendered to Syracuse today, was the climax of a visit—in reality a triumph—which began yesterday when the youthful flier piloted the Spirit of St. Louis into the Syracuse Airport before more than 10,000 persons.

Greeted by Hanna. There Mayor Charles G. Hanna was on hand to greet him. Mrs. Florence E. S. Knapp thrust a huge bouquet into his hands.

"From all the women," she told him. "This youth, who braved the Atlantic alone, hung his head in embarrassment. He flushed, even above his tan. His fingers played through his tousled hair.

"I thank all the women," he told Mrs. Knapp. Then they took him on a parade through the streets of the city to the Stadium. Every block was lined with cheering spectators. Torn paper streamed in the wind. Automobiles were lined up.

Colonel Lindbergh sat in a big Franklin car with Mayor Hanna and Mrs. Knapp. He waved a green and white banner that read "Hello, Lindy!" and waved his appearance.

More than 30,000 people lined up when he entered the Stadium. Banners were massed for a parade. Mrs. Knapp, who had a green and white banner, waved it to the crowd. There were many other banners. The parade was a triumph. The flier's appearance was a triumph.
